Professional Summary

I am a programmer who loves his job and cares about the details my profession requires. I learned that working with different people and being in a team makes it easier to achieve in line with my education and life.

I know it is important to be able to find solutions to both business and personal challenges. Therefore, it is very important for me to learn new knowledge and improve my skills. For this purpose, I think it is necessary to benefit from the teaching of human relations and I care about this. So it is very important for me to exchange information with other people in team work.

My education life provided me with the necessary basic infrastructure for the areas I want to work with. However, the area of mobile software I am interested in does not exist in the university education curriculum. For this reason, I raised myself in this field. I developed myself in research, motivation, entrepreneurship and acquiring different skills because I saw that they brought me success. I have always thought of many solutions for a single problem in my life. I would design the causes, results and solutions in my head. I always said, "What would I do if I was?" I said. Everyone has a method of success - and with the programming language - an algorithm. This is my success algorithm.
